

Gift Markings

by Pamela Landers, Master Hand Analyst

Your hands are your individual soup map for this lifetime. Your unique, personal map is determined by how your lines are drawn and how they intersect, the shape and texture of your hands and fingers and your fingerprint markings.

One category of line formations in hands is called Gift Markings. These markings represent extra potential talents. If you have one, it is a very BIG deal. If you have more than one, it's an even bigger deal.

Richard Unger, Director of the Institute of Hand Analysis in Marin County, California developed this system. See HandAnalysis.net for more details.

What is a Gift Marking?

1. Gift Markings are line formations on the palms or fingers.
2. Gift Markings identify Extra Potential Talent.
3. There are 16 distinct Gift Markings that can appear in a person's hands.
4. Approximately 35% of the population has some type of Gift Marking.
5. Each individual Gift Marking may appear on as little as 6% of the population.
6. Multiples of an individual Gift Marking on your hands may put you in 3% or less of the population.
7. Each Gift Marking is to be considered a central focus of your life in addition to the fingerprints identifying your Life Purpose, your DNA marking your soul agreement.

In some cases, a Gift Marking may be even more prominent than fingerprints and require more attention. That's how important a Gift Marking can be.

About 35% of the population has at least one Gift Marking. Some people have two or three (maybe about 15% of the population), and fewer people have more than three, estimating between 3% and 6% of less of the population.

Extra Potential Talent

With each Gift Marking comes the requirement of life-centered expression, creating even more Extra Potential Talent. If not used, life can be more difficult than for those without Gift Markings. There is a much stronger responsibility to live and express your Gift Marking than other hand markings, except maybe fingerprints. And in some cases more is required from you than expressing fingerprints.

One of the biggest challenges with Gift Markings is to stay focused on expressing your talent. Either from jealousy or not understanding, others may try to contain you or distract you from full expression. Remember, you are in a rare category. Others may not get it, appreciate or like it. However, the soul agreement still exists for to use your Gift Marking to the best of your ability to be soulfully happy. Allowing yourself to be contained because others want that diminishes your joy and will eventually take its toll on every relationship in your life.

If you feel restless that "something is missing" you may have a Gift Marking, or two or three. And those markings are requiring more attention.

Click here to learn more about your specific Gift Markings – look at the layout to see if you have any. If you do, the book, Gift Markings, Your Hands' Extra Potential talent is for you. Each of the 16 Gift Markings is explained in detail with graphics to show examples. This book is also available in e-book format. Check out the order page.